It is generally assumed that our organic aw is permanent, unless amended by a proposition from two-thirds of Congress, or a convention called in accordance with the demand of two-thirds of the States, and the proposed amendment ratified by three-fourths of the States. That is true, if the intention of the framers of the Constitution is regarded. They left, however, in the hands of a mejority of the States the power to put an end to the Government. Suppose a majority of the States should decline to elect Senators at all; then no law could be passed in accordance with the Constitution. A minority can compel the attendance of its members, but in this case it would have no majority to compel. There could be no constitutional Senate, and the Government would fail. It would be easy to eay that these States would not do their duty, but there would be no remedy. A great ma ority of the people of the United States micht detest this action of the States; for a combina-

ion of the small States might effect the obect. Again, a majority of the congressional districts might defeat the election of a President; either before the people or in the House In Congress the States could so cast their votes as to elect nobody to the office of Presiident, and there would be no remedy. It is plain that a simple majority of the States, or of the people, could dissolve the Government and compel a change of the organic law, and there is no provision against the exercise of this power, The authors of the Constitution did not presume to provide for such an emergency. Leaving this power in the majority, the might have presumed that two-thirds would do something regularly by calling a convention, and that three fourths would ratify it to satisfy a majority. The framers of the Constitution did not believe in the efficacy of force to sustain a Government against popular consent; and if a majority of the States or people would not sustain the Government, there was an end of it. They expected only s voluntary union on the part of a mejority. There are some things no Government pro vides for. In our Constitution, the freest, the right to resist oppression is not alluded to; for it is assumed that the Government will not oppress its chizens. Our fathers all believed in resistance, if there was a good reason for it, but there was no place for such an explicit declaration in the organic law. It could not provide for its own pullification,

After the restoration of monarchy under Charles II, the friends of prerogative had some advantages of public opinion, owing to the excesses of the revolutionary party. Bo it was proposed to declare that resistance to royal that county. authority was never allowable-that is, that there was no such thing as the right of revoluion. Parliament would not assert this, nor, says the historian, would that body affirm that 100 resistance was in any case allowable; the express decisration might be of dangerous consequences. Extremes Governments cannot provide for by organic law, or any other sort

The resolutions of '98 sffirm that our Government is a compact between independent States; that each State is entitled to judge of any infringement of the compact, and to seck its own mode and measure of redress. By the same logic the other States in the Federal Government are an independent party to the compact. They, too, being parties, are entitled to judge of any infringement by s State, and to seek their own mode and measure of redrass. All this will do very well for logic; but, if it be sound, we can have a civ.l war, constitutional on both sides; for, according to the logic, each side is only exercising its rights under the Constitution. Too much logic will not do in government. "Be not overmuch rightcons, nor think threelf wise overmuch."

The men who framed the Constitution would not authorize the General Government expressly to make war on a State; for they would not provide for such a contingency. They, however, declared that the Constitution, and the laws made in pursuance thereof, was the supreme law of the land, anything in the aws or constitution of a State to the contrary notwithstanding. They had made it the duty of the President to take care that these laws be faith ully executed. They made him commander of the army and navy; so they gave him the military power to enforce those laws. The generation of men that made and ratified the Constitution, made a law authorizing the President to call out forces at his discretion to overcome combinations against the excen tion of the laws, too powerful for the civil authorities. They did not provide that he should not do this, if the combination was supported by State authorities. In short, they who made the Constitution, or the laws, did not provide for the nullification of the Constitution and laws. Our readers know that we condemn the conduct of this Administration, which has dis It is true that the Federal Government cannot make war on a State; for a State cannot be disfranchised, or her right affected, by the illectual and void. From the Baltimore American of Monday P. M. We learn it is the intention of the military authorities to key on the rebel property-hold-ers of Bultimore county the full smount of damage desc to the property of loyal men in GOV. BRADFORD'S HOUSE BURNED.

We regret to learn that the rebel guerrilles under Harry Gilmore, numbering some dez-en, surrounded the country massion of Gov ernor Bradford, on Charles street avenue, as daylight this marning, about four miles from the city, and ordered Mrs. Bradford and he family to vacate the premises. They allowed them to remove some few homechold value. les, and at eight o'clock this morning fire he premises.

The cavalryman refused to allow him to go back or forward. He sat down on the grass, and was then told that they were about burning the Governor's house. Immediately after the women and children accreaming he heard the women and children screaming at the house, and he begged the man to allow him to go up to their assistance. The great and embarrassing question which at this time presents itself to the people of Indiana springs from the terrible and desolating civil war which for more than three years has been clothing our country in mourn-ing and wasting our energies as a nation.

I shall never believe but what this great ca-

Captain B. didu't stay; of course he believed them; but then, you see, he didu't stay. And then we all feit good, and those on the boat that the through the recognition more on he hoat that thought the guerrillas were all alsed to catch them were happy, and we oeked into one another's faces, and we smiled. Some invalided and convalescent contractors talk very largely of Kentucky, and want to know why she don't drive the guerrillas out. Why, bless your innocent souls, gentlemen, we like you too well. Suppose every State drives them from their borders, what would be the use of soldiers? And no soldiers, what becomes of your "fat take?" Where, then, oh, pairlots, is your blue beef? Where is your sheddy clothes? And where, oh, where is your smile? Davis ought to start these men through Kentucky electioneering. [Telegraphic Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.] From New York-A Clear Account of the Situation in Maryland.

NEW YORK, July 13.

All reports, rumors and facts yet gleaned about the invasion cannot convince me that there are more than 15,000 rebels in Maryland. All reports of Hill's approach with his corps are mere inventions. The rebel-in-chief com-manding, is Early. He has two divisions of infantry, commanded by Breckinridge and Rhodes. Bradley Johnson, who figures conspicuously, is commanding a brigade in Rhodes' Divisi n. There are about 3,000 cavalry under the chief command of Gen. Russom, formed into two brigades under command of imboden and McCausland. This force is broken up into small bodies and scattered over the country in pillaging parties, thereby greatly magnifying its strength. At noon today there was no considerable force of rebels known to be in Maryland north of the Balti-more and Ohlo railroad. Gen. Crook had ap-peared at Westminster and General Averill at the highly responsible duties about to be entrusted to him, to take an oath to "support the Constitution of the United States and the States and the States and to filed as, and to saithfully perform the duties of the office."

Should I be elected, the ceremony and form by which I am inducted into the office will be no idle pageant tome, but the official oath, by which only I could be qualified to enter upon the discharge of my official outies, would be looked to as indicating the character of those looked to as indicating the character of those looked to as indicating the character of those At the laster place artillery and wagons cannot cross. The situation in front of Washington is not fully known, but in none of the accounts is there any evidence of a determined assault on the defenses of the city. The rallroad and telegraphs are of course interrupted. The city of Annapolis is not taken; Annapolis Junction may be, though it is not certain, for the telegraphic operator ran away before he saw a rebel.

In the raid on the Wilmington railroad, the freebooters under Gilmore numbered, by actual count, eighty-three. Their sole object is robbery. They began it by high toned assurances that private persons and property should be respected, and ended it by stripping every-body of money, jewelry and valuables. The capture of Gen. Franklin was an accident. There comes a circumstantial and apparently reliable report of his escape, but as yet to be confirmed.

Not a rod of railroad was destroyed. The lamage to Gunpowder bridge was measured by the length of the burning train that was by the length of the burning train that was run into. The chief disgrace of the whole thing is that attaching to a party of Baltimore female rebels, who disgusted all present and debused female virtue by their affectionate familiarity with rebel officers—one of them, who claims to be and hearcafter will be notonously known, as Kate Lee, going so far as to divide, with her own hands, the spoil taken from the private baggage of passengers.

WASHINGTON, July 13. Washington, July 13.

Skirmishing has been constantly going on, and our troops have acted strictly on the defensive until yesterday evening, when the rebel sharpshooters becoming annoying, it was determined to disledge them from the front of Fert Stevens. This was effectually accomplished, amid shouls of applause from those who witnessed the action. The rebels retired in hot haste, leaving at the house of F. P. Blair 100 wounded, including 11 officers, and their dead upon the field. A reconnoissance this morning showed that the rebels had disappeared during the night from in front of our fortifications, after firing a number of our fortifications, after firing a number of buildings which they had previously occupied as a shelter to their sharpshooters.

CAPTURE OF REBEL PRISONERS.—Captain Davis, commanding a company of the 162d Ohio National Guards, captured seven rebel soldiers between Warsaw and Owenton, Ky., on Monday last, and brought them to Covington on Wednesday, Their names are as follows: Sergeant G. W. Stephenson, privates T. M. Harter, James B. Clifton, Elijah Perkins, W. Lingenfelter, J. L. Lingenfelter and G. W. Wainscott. They were all well armed and well clothed, and stated that they belonged to Clay's battalion, First Kentucky (rebel) mounted infantry, of Giltner's brigade. Captain Davis is doing good service in ridding Owen, Gallatin and adjoining counties of rebel guerrillas and bushwhackers.

Com. Winslow says that in defense of the engines on the outside the Kearsarge, he had "stopped" up and down her sheet chains, These were stopped with marline and eyeoolis, which extended some twenty feet. Tais was done by the hands of the Kearsarge. The whole was covered by light plank to prevent firt from collecting. It was for the purpose of protecting the engines when there was no coal in the upper part of the bunkers, as was the case when the action took place.

The number of candidates for admission to the London clubs of the first order has become so large, and the difficulty of election so great, that some remedy to this state of things had become indispensable. The Junior Carlton Club has accordingly been founded, and more recently the New Club has been started under the auspices of an influential body of noblemen and gentlemen. The proposed site of the club is in Pall-mall, and it is understood that the members (timited to 2,000) already number five hundred.

During the thunder storm Thursday afternoon the wires at the Great Western railway depot, at Windsor, Canada, conducted the electric fluid into the office, but fortunately it struck a second wire and ran out again, break ing the window as it passed. The operator was slightly stunned by the shock, and a man sitting on a chair under the window had his hand badly cut by the falling glass. No other damage was done.

A Toronto, Canada, correspondent of the New York Herald says that a new plot is approaching maturity in that city, which has for its object the release of the rebel prisoners at Johnson's Island and the destruction of Fort Niagars; that large sums have been subscribed by leading Torontonians, and the services of every rowdy in Toronto have been engaged. The plan most popular is, that on a given night, to be understood between the orisoners and marauders, the buildings are to be fired, and the prisoners, being furnished with arms by the Canadians, are to massacre the guard and the officers of the garrison, and then escape in boats.

(From Wilkes' Spirit of the Times of July 2d. The Great Races in this Country France and ingland-Comparative others hold that it is of no use at all, and, in fact, more often delusive and mischievous than otherwise. The truth, as in most other mooted questions, probably lies in a golden mean be-tween the two parties. It cannot but be useful to note the time of races, and apply as an element in the deductions to be made; but if a man thinks that a watch and a measured mile are all the requisites to test the merit of a performer, he is apt to be sorely deceived. It is quite probable that the "time," as often taken in England, was of no use at all, and, in fact, rather mischievous and delusive than otherwise, simply because it was inaccurate and unreliable. Lately, however, the time as taken in England, although no part of the official proceedings, closely approximates the correctness which is the rule here. Indeed, we see of late an attempt to carry out the time-taking to an extent which can hardly fail to be incorrect in its fractions, though the sum of the races may be right enough. In the report of the last Derby at Epsom, Bell's Life had the quarters for the race of a mile and a half, not run, be it remembered, on a round course, where the first quarter and a half mile are accurately measured and marked by posts. For our part, we decline to give the time of anything less than a mile, ex-cept as part of the narative, having no great faith in fractions, and being unable to see how it can be made of any use, even where the timers are most skillful and accurate. But let this pass. We think it cannot but be interesting and useful to state and compare the time and weights in five great races recently won by three year-olds, one of which, the Paterson Derby, look place here; three of which, the Derby, Oaks, and Gold Cup at Ascot, were run in England; and one of which was for the Grand Prize of Paris, in France. First, of our own Derby, the winner of which was Norfolk, a very fleet and grand colt in our estimation. With a hundred pounds up, the time of the mile and a half was 2 minutes 464 seconds, which is nearly at the rate of 1m. 51s. to the mile. That is, if the Wires of all kinds. have been exactly 1m. 51s. to the mil. Now, the Derby in England, the same Ristance, with one hundred and twer, ty-two pounds up, was run in 2m. 43s., which is 1m. 484s, to the mile. But, now, in comparing these two performances we are met by the facts that the fastest one was run over turf without sharp turns, but with a pretty stiff hill at the finish, while the other was over a dirt track, in which there were four turns to be run round in the race. It is also to be observed that Norfolk ran clean away from his horses at the start, and won in a canter, but, per contra, tha Blair Athol had a bad start, and had to be rushed through a lot of horses under whip and spur. He also finished easily. In the Oaks, the distance and weights were the same as in the Derby, and the French filly by Scottish Chief were one hundred and three pounds, and he won it in the commonest of canters by six lengths, time 4m. 35s. Now, this time has only been No. 229 Broadway, New York bettered twice over that course. Once was when Australian beat Kingston, and the other race was that in which Teddington just beat Stockwell by a head. Four thirty-five is at the rate of thirteen and threequarter seconds to the furlong, or one min ute fifty seconds to the mile. Taking the whole ccount into consideration, many people will deem this performance by Scottish Chief to be the best of the five we have had under notice; and although he was only third at Epsom to Blair Athol, it may be doubted whether he would not defeat him and Nortolk and Vermont and Fille de l'Air in a race of two miles and a half, weights about one hundred and five GRAHAMTOWN, KY., January 26, 1864. Granamtown, Kr., January 25, 1998.

Some think time is all sufficient as a test of merit in a race-horse, and of races;

Mr. J. D. Bondurant—Dear Sir: I hereby certify with pleasure to the good qualities of Ball's Combined Resper and Mower, bought of you last season (183), for W. G. and O. M. And ron. I fully test d is qualities on all kinds of ground—very rough hill-sides and story bottoms—for heavy ledge of wheat, licht grain, and light and heavy grass, and I gave perfect salisfaction in all its operations. And I do certify that it is the best Reaping and Mowing Machine I ever saw, and is by far the best I have used on this farm.

Respectfully yours.

JAMES GEDDES.

J. D. Bondurant. Louisville. Ky.: The undersigned, each of us having used E Ball's improved Reaper and Mower, would recommend the same as being we thy of pat onace. We would say that the machine both as a Reaper and Mower, exceeds our expectations. It rums very easy for a same of two horses in the heavisst when we use a same as the same as the same as when cu ting a sward six feet wide. It delivers the grain at the side of the platform with ease to the raker, and in good condition for bird g. We would further add, that we have had the purchase of machines in corresponding to the platform with ease to the raker, and in good condition for bird g. We would further add, that we have had the purchase of machines in corresponding to the result of the different machines such and use to the merits of the different machines and during that line have endeavored to past ourselves as well as we could as to the merits of the different machines and dark the Ball wachine. It things con idered came the negreet to surideas of what a heaping and Mowing Michine ought to be and secordingly purch seed that Machine, and after having used them we are satisfied that we made the very best-election we could have made.
